The Death March of O. P. A.

—by—
SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

O. P. A. drags on to its sorry end. Despite its 32,000 press agents, prosecutors, and political pharisees it is dying on the vine just as surely as federal prohibition petered out in a stinking pool of corruption and crime.

"The black market in meat is worse than it has ever been," says a man who knows. Black market profits in cattle now run $50 a head. Swift and Co. at Fort Worth is laying off its men. Its cattle kill is running 15% of normal. The new "cattle rustlers" grab the rest, slaughter them in dirty barns, and the profits, of course, pay no taxes.

In Kansas, Swift, Armour, Wilson, Cudahy and Morrell are said to have reduced their operations by 80%. O. P. A. can't force them to lose $15 a head forever. Government officials estimate that non-suspected black market meat has tripled since last fall. People will eat.

The head of the Corn Belt Livestock Feeders says, "We face the worst meat shortage this country has ever seen." The manager of the American Dairy Association says, "Butter is gone, bread is going and milk is next on the list." Of 1,000 dairy cows last year, he estimates that only 845 are alive today. As the Bolsheviks liquidated the Russian farmers, O. P. A. (catering to the big city vote), is sentencing the American farmer to stop farming or become a criminal. In Minnesota and Wisconsin 725 creameries and dairies have been put out of business. Without feed, labor or profits they can't go on.

In 18 states farm wages are still under ceiling. But not in Detroit, Pittsburgh and other centers where Henry Wallace cheered on the boys to "take it out of profits" in a dishonest statement issued last fall which he has finally repudiated—after the Big Steel and G. M. strikes are over! Why work on the farm? But if not, food riots in the cities. Last November the Civilian Production Administration asked price raises for western lumber. O. P. A. refused. So there is more housing shortage! Johns-Manville has stopped production of items such as asbestos, shingles and wall board. Manufacturers of farm machinery do not know if they can pass on wage raises. So farm tool making has stopped while strikes go on.

The big boys will perhaps squeeze through—as they nearly always do, somehow—even by Presidents appointing their lobbyists to key positions in government. But the small business man is getting the works. Opinion Research has polled the little businessmen—the man in the noose.

Here is their verdict. Due to O. P. A. ceilings and government hoisted wages, 70% have been hurt; 67% have reduced production, mostly in low-priced goods; 33 1/3% say they must close down unless their necks are taken out of the noose; 57% say their profit trend is down; 46% say they would

PLAN TO RE-NUMBER HULMEVILLE HOUSES

Decision Reached by Council in Order to Avoid Difficulties in Future

WATER ST. DRAINAGE

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 2—Hulmeville borough council at its April session last evening in town hall, arranged for the re-numbering of houses in the borough; and after hearing complaints of residents of Water street, planned for repairs to that thoroughfare and to Estill Alley, which connects Main and Water streets. A. E. A. Bronson presided.

Discussions took place on the manner in which numbers had been assigned houses in the borough during the past few weeks, and councilmen, in order to avoid difficulties in years to come, decided to rectify the matter at once. It is suggested by the councilman body that those who have not purchased numbers for their houses refrain from doing so until new numbers are assigned. It is also suggested that an exchange might be arranged between residents who have already purchased numbers when proper numbers are assigned. The highway and sidewalk committee was named to care for the project, arranging also for assignment of numbers to vacant lots, thus caring for any future homes built. A special meeting of these committees will be held on Monday, April 8th, and the project is to be submitted to council for approval before residents are advised of numbers for their homes.

In regard to an inquiry made of the firm of Eastburn & Blanche, Bristol, about ownership of the portion of Ford avenue which formerly contained trolley tracks, council was advised that that firm has no knowledge of the ownership.

The highway committee was advised to secure bids for repairs to Green street and Fairview avenue.

William Gross and George Zarr, owners of properties on Water street, asked council to arrange for proper drainage of water which is said to run from the Frick Company property and from Hulme street onto Water street. They also reported that travel is made difficult on Estill Alley due to a hump extending the middle and length of that thoroughfare. Council arranged to have these matters cared for. Another complaint received was of water laying in a low spot near the intersection of Ford and Washington avenues, and becoming stagnant.

Constable Orville Morris suggested to council that some dead limbs be removed from certain trees in the Memorial Park. Council announced that it is still open for bids for cutting of the grass this summer in the park.

NATIONAL ELECTION

A fact about the coming elections which many voters have not yet fully understood is that the national issues are much the most important questions to be decided.

Despite the fact that virtually the entire executive and legislative branches of the Pennsylvania government are up for election, the national problems have the center of the stage just as they would if a president were to be chosen.

The reason is not far to seek. The United States is in an unusual position, so far as national policy is concerned. There is none. Federal policy is stalled on dead center.

There are two possible sources of American policy. One is the President; the other is Congress. The White House has attempted to lay down one program, the majority of Congress another. Neither can make its own effective over the other's opposition, and each believes—or claims to—that it has the "public" behind it.

Moreover, the division of opinion does not follow exact party lines; neither of the two major parties is in a position to insist upon either program.

Last September 6 President Truman outlined a program which disregarded the involved state of national finances and which would have carried deficit-spending to new record heights. Moreover, his suggestions would have led to the further great centralization of power at Washington and in the hands of his appointees—the much-discussed "bureaucrats."

This program was opposed by most Republicans, which was not necessarily fatal to it, for the Republicans control neither the majority votes nor the legislative machinery of Congress.

Much more important was the opposition which developed within the Democratic party itself. The division

PLANE CONSIGNEE IS SAID TO BE LOCATED

Edmund Robinson, Morrisville, Quoted as Saying He Heads 'Scientific Society'

HAD ORDERED A P-51

The Bucks County Scientific Society to which the P-51 flown to Southwest Philadelphia Airport Sunday was consigned, is proving almost as much of a mystery as to whom or where the aircraft should be delivered.

For 24 hours the plane lay at the Southwest Airport awaiting a claimant. Yesterday, after general publicity given through the press that no organization by that name could be located, a Morrisville resident claimed that he terms the "Bucks Co. Scientific Society," and which he is quoted as stating he heads, had ordered the P-51.

Today numerous telephone calls to Trenton, N. J., and Morrisville failed to reveal who the officials of the "Bucks County Scientific Society" are, and where the society is located. To all telephone inquiries the answers were the same from all sources—"we have no information to give out." "I don't know who the officers are." "The members are all out of town;" and "I don't know how long the society has been formed."

It was on Sunday that the P-51 army plane landed in Philadelphia, piloted 3,000 miles by Capt. Ray

"CO-OP" ENLARGES ITS CO. SEAT BUILDINGS

Complete A $20,000 Addition in the Cross Keys Section

INVESTMENT, $250,000

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 2—The Bucks Co. Producers' Cooperative Association at Swamp Road and Center avenue, has completed a $20,000 addition to its headquarters in the Cross Keys area.

An investment of $250,000 by the cooperative is thus represented, exclusive of the additions at the egg auction plant.

The new addition to the egg handling headquarters consists of up-to-date candling rooms, offices and storage rooms.

With the addition of the new section which is 44 feet by 64 feet, three stories, the entire plant now has a floor space of approximately 12,000 square feet, and is the largest and most up-to-date in the northeast section of the country. The new addition is of steel and concrete block construction with asbestos shingle roofing.

In addition to frozen foods, yacht cannons, harpoon guns, and many other things that are made or merchandised in the busy Cross Keys section, the producers' co-operative is now equipped—with its new addition—to handle 2240 cases of eggs a week, which means 67,200 dozen or 806,400 individual eggs.

The new candling room contains some new machinery, including the very latest type of set-up machine which sets up the egg cartons, that are then filled as another machine seals and labels the cartons.

No auction has been held at the local plant since the OPA ceiling prices went into effect.

A STATIC AMERICA

The government order which strictly limits all construction and repair work puts the country under controls which in some respects are as drastic as any which were enforced during the war. What is now in prospect, insofar as building is concerned, and excepting only homes for veterans, is a static America.

Whether so extreme a step is necessary to provide the housing facilities which the nation needs may be debatable but, because the course has now been set, it does no good to argue the point. Whether it could have been averted may likewise be open to question, but again discussion is fruitless. All Americans can do now is to reconcile themselves to the fact that they will not be permitted to make even necessary repairs to their homes or, if they are engaged in business, that they will be prohibited from adding to stores, plants and factories.

That this new decree, applying to every last citizen, will have a portentous effect on American life cannot be doubted. Millions of householders, thousands of business men and probably thousands of public institutions such as schools and hospitals, after waiting eagerly for the end of the war to carry out long-cherished repair or building plans, are now condemned to remain where they are.

It is true that the way is left open by the government for citizens to seek exemption from the provisions of this harsh regulation, but the authorities indicate clearly that the burden of proof will rest heavily on the man who makes the appeal. Probably it will be easier to sit and suffer than to fight for a concession.

As Americans today survey the dark prospect ahead of them, they can only hope that the program will do what it is supposed to do—provide the 2,700,000 homes which it is estimated are required by the veterans. When they contemplate what bureaucracy has accomplished with so simple an item as butter, they are forced to the conclusion that it isn't in the cards.

EXPENSIVE MIDDLING

The election of Colonel Peron as president of Argentina is one of the most serious blows which American diplomacy has ever suffered. To most persons, too, it will appear to be a national lesson which should have been learned long ago.

That it would have been this country's interest to have Colonel Peron defeated goes without saying. This is true even though the election of his communist opponent, whom the State Department backed, would have been of dubious advantage.

But one result of Washington's futile interference in the internal affairs of another nation is a drop in American prestige not only throughout South America but in other parts of the world. The second and more damaging consequences is the excuse and inspiration which Colonel Peron now has for continuing his efforts to form the countries south of the equator into an active anti-American bloc.

between "Southern" and "Northern" Democrats—a split dating as far back as the days of Andrew Jackson—opened anew. This separation, conspicuous in the last months of the Roosevelt Administration, had shown some signs of healing on the Truman assertion that he would be a "middle of the road" executive; his September message placed him on the far "Left" in policy.

President Truman had inherited control of the machinery of Congress, through committee majorities and chairmanships. But the withdrawal of the more conservative Democratic opinion left him and his Congressional leaders without the votes to put his program across.

United against the program were the votes of non-radical Democrats and of most Republicans. It is rank nonsense and pure political propaganda to assert that this actual majority of Congressional votes does not have a program and policy of its own; of course it has. It is absurd also to claim that the President, living in the ivory tower of the White House, knows better what the American public wants than do the several hundred Democratic and Republican members of Congress, who are in fairly constant touch with their constituents.

But this Congressional fusion, sometimes called the "unholy alliance" by its enemies, has no method of putting its program into effect. Committees are stacked against it; the entire administrative staff of government is working against it as a gigantic lobby; and use of the Presidential veto already has been threatened.

As a sample of the fusion's convictions on policy, take the Case Bill. This labor measure went through the House of Representatives by a whopping majority, with virtually as many Democrats as Republicans supporting it. To get it through at all, the House had to by-pass its entire committee system.

Now the Case Bill has been taken over by the White House wrecking crew in the Senate; it has virtually no chance at all of reaching the floor in recognizable form to be voted upon on its merits. Moreover, the White House "lobby" has industriously joined with certain special-interest labor groups in misrepresenting the Case Bill to the American people.

Here is a new labor program, at a moment when one is desperately needed, which—good or bad—represents the considered judgment of the vast majority of all the membership of the two Houses of Congress, supported by the majority votes of both parties. Yet it cannot escape "knifing" by the White House.

What applies to the Case Bill applies to nearly all other programs.

While there is a strong tendency towards impatience, this is a cloud with a large silver lining.

Much more important than speed is for the policy to be right once it is determined upon; and equally important is it that the policy represent the majority opinion of the American people.

That is where the elections come in. If the voters support the White House, and elect Congressmen and Senators committed to back up the President, the Truman program will go through. Whether the policies be wise or otherwise, the responsibility for them will then be on the head of the American people themselves.

Those groups which are especially interested in putting the President's program across—the CIO-PAC leaders, for example—recognize this situation very clearly. The talk by such extremists as Wallace of the need for a "purge" indicates their awareness that radicalism will live or die in the United States largely on the results of the election figures this fall.

On the other hand, if the so-called "conservatives" of the South are not liquidated by the Democratic Party, and Republican strength continues as it is, the deadlock will be continued as it exists and the next Congressional session will be another one of violent strife and half-hearted compromises.

The third possibility, which current trends make extremely likely, is that the Republican Party may wind up with a clear working majority of the House of Representatives.

If this happens, in the reorganization of Congress next January, the fusion of Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans, armed with enough votes to override a veto, will also be able to take charge of the machinery of passing laws.

This means, in a nutshell, that the non-radical program now supported by a clear majority of both Houses of Congress, would become a reality, whether the President liked it or not.

So far as the White House is concerned, if it ever loses its tight grip on legislative machinery it will be kept so busy explaining hosts of revelations of matters now carefully suppressed that it will cease to be even faintly a policy-making headquarters.

endless borrowing, just as a dishonest farmer pours water into milk. For political reasons, the administration continues to borrow and spend, as it has done for 16 years; and to "monetize the debt" as Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board warns us, thus causing the inflation it shouts about. But with O. P. A. it hopes to fool Boobus Americanus so that he will blame business rather than the administration.

It took us 14 years to see through federal prohibition of booze. How long must we suffer the Bowles-Brewster and red-tape worms of O. P. A. before we get wise to them—and ourselves?

Ex-Service Men Entering Private Business Here

are in business together. They are Elwood Palmer Goslin and George Cedric Jarvis, of Radcliffe street. The two have entered the oil burner, and refrigeration service, operating from their homes. Both had had experience in this work prior to going overseas, and were thus brought to their decision as to the current enterprise. Goslin was in the navy; and Jarvis was in Iran. Nelson Green, who with the navy saw service in the South and Central Pacific, has entered the automotive repair service, he and Herbert Lawrence being associated in business, the firm being known as Green & Lawrence, Inc. This is a new enterprise for the former navy man, who is serving the public at 2609 Farragut avenue.

What had been his hobby has turned into a business enterprise for Edward Ostrowski, who is now operating the "Vets Photo Service" at his home, Beaver Road and Venice avenue. A technical sergeant in the U. S. Marine Corps, Ostrowski served in the Southwest Pacific. One of the new operators of the Keystone Hotel is a veteran of World War II. He is David Granatir, formerly of Philadelphia, who with his brother-in-law is a joint owner of the Keystone, they having assumed ownership in February. Mr. Granatir served as a squadron executive officer in the Army Air Corps, and saw 2½ years of activity in the European Theatre of Operations.

Peter Piraino, Philadelphia, has purchased the Model Bakery at 906 Pond street, he assuming ownership effective April 1st and opening for business on April 2nd. Piraino was in the army infantry, and spent six months in the Aleutian Islands, and 29 months in the Hawaiian Islands. He was granted a discharge last November. Piraino has had several years experience in the bakery business.

John H. Wiescher, Jr., and William G. Wiescher have affiliated with their father, Councilman John H. Wiescher, Sr. in the sheet metal and roofing business. They became members of the firm of John H. Wiescher & Sons on April 1st. Both had previously been in their father's employ, and both are war veterans. John, Jr., who served in the army air corps, was a prisoner of war of the Germans for 11 months. William served for 2½ years with the U. S. Navy "Seabees" and was also overseas for some time.

Horace P. Schmidt has, since his return from the army, been admitted to membership in the florist firm of J. C. Schmidt, here. The young man, who served in the army for 27 months, part of the time in the European theatre of operations, was employed by his father, Burgess Jacob C. Schmidt, Sr., in the florist business, before entering the service.

Gene Nichols, who served with the 166th Photographic Co. of the Army Signal Corps, now owns and operates a photographic supply store located on the first floor of the Nichols building, Mill street. Nichols saw service in the European theatre of operations.

William R. Wright, who saw service with the 28th Field Artillery Observation Battalion in the Pacific theatre of operations, a few months ago became associated with his father, Raymond W. Wright, in the sale of motor cars and trucks. The business is located on Otter street.

O God, teach us day by day what Thou wouldst have us to do, and give us grace and power to fulfill the same. May we never from love of ease decline the path Thou hast pointed out, or from fear of shame turn away from it. In the name of Thy Son who bore the cross for the world. Amen.

When is a Long Distance call necessary?

YOU ARE THE BEST JUDGE. We think every call is urgent. That's why we try our best to put it through quickly.

But more of you are making more Long Distance calls than ever before—even more than in the war years.

We are building new equipment as fast as we can and getting it into service on the double. But right now there's a bit more traffic than we can take care of the way we'd like.

We'd appreciate your help a little while longer by making only necessary Long Distance calls.

Plane Consignee Is Said to Be Located

Littig, of Altenburg, Mo. There was no one to receive it at the airport, and no one could determine who the "Bucks County Scientific Society" was or where it was located. Later yesterday it is stated by Philadelphia news sources that Edmund L. Robinson, president of Crescent Wire & Cable Co., Trenton, N. J., reported from his Morrisville home that the craft belonged to the "Bucks Co. Scientific Society" which he stated he "heads."

He further told a Philadelphia news agency that the plane had been purchased from the War Assets Administration "for educational purposes, to be exhibited at Morrisville for school children."

Robinson is quoted as further saying that the craft should have been delivered at Fleetwings field, Bristol, and that he had not been advised in advance that it was arriving over the week-end.

Numerous telephone calls this morning to individuals at Skyhaven Field, Mr. Robinson's home, some business offices in Morrisville; also to the Skyhaven office in Trenton, N. J., and Mr. Robinson's office in that city, failed to turn up anyone who had any definite knowledge of the "Bucks Co. Scientific Society." All said they had no information to give, or that they did not know the names of the president, treasurer, secretary or any other officials; and those queried did not know if the society has just been formed. Mr. Robinson could not be contacted.

The plane, it is stated, is still in Philadelphia.

HULMEVILLE

Ralph Mills, AMM 3/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Mills, Sr., has been honorably discharged from the U. S. Naval Air Corps at Bainbridge, Md. He served three years on the U. S. S. "Wasp," the first 2½ years being in the Pacific theatre of operations, and the past six months in the Atlantic fleet. Edward F. McHale, C. P. O., brother of Mrs. Edward F. Mills, Sr., who served on a hospital ship in the Pacific during the recent war, has returned to duty after a 45-days re-enlistment leave. Two weeks of the period was spent at the Mills home on Ford avenue. McHale has re-enlisted for one year, he serving 21 years in the navy to date.

Miss Anna Mills, who has been seriously ill, is improving nicely at her home. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mills, who have been visiting the latter's parents in Rhode Island, will make their home with Mr. Mills' parents here for a time.

The Misses Dorothy Jean Magee and Isabelle Howes enjoyed a three day trip to Washington, D. C., and Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barton have changed their place of residence to the bungalow on Main street owned by Norman Davis.

From Saturday until Monday Mrs. William Codling was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Evans, Philadelphia. On Saturday evening she attended the 39th annual banquet of Naval Auxiliary, U. S. W. V., of which she is a member.
